Albuquerque Attorneys Recognized as 2016 Southwest Super Lawyers

ALBUQUERQUE — Albuquerque-based law firm Giddens, Gatton & Jacobus, P.C., formerly known as The Law Office of George “Dave” Giddens, P.C., is pleased to announce the inclusion of George “Dave” Giddens and Chris Gatton as 2016 Southwest Super Lawyers®.

Super Lawyers is an internationally recognized rating system for lawyers who work in more than 70 fields of legal practice. The service uses a process that includes independent research, peer nominations and a peer-to-peer rating system. Currently, five percent of attorneys in the Southwest have been awarded Super Lawyers distinction.

George “Dave” Giddens is the founder and managing shareholder of Giddens, Gatton & Jacobus, P.C., and specializes in bankruptcy law.

Practicing law since 1983, Giddens founded the Law Office of Dave “George” Giddens in 1997 and has been working to assist clients through the process of corporate and personal bankruptcy and financial reorganization for more than 30 years. Giddens has received the highest peer rating of AV-Preeminent, reflecting the peak of professionalism and ethical standards in practicing law, according to the Martindale-Hubbard national peer review rating system that tracks the peer ratings of attorneys and judges from throughout the nation.

Giddens serves on numerous community boards including the Rotary Club of Albuquerque and is an active member of St. Steven’s United Methodist Church where he
